Not illustrated. 1907 Excerpt: .Mathematics; or (e) 7 periods for Needlework and the Domestic Arts generally; or (J) 7 periods for Practical Botany with Plant Physiology and Chemistry; or (j) 7 periods for any other form of specialisation that might be deemed desirable. 3. The extent to which it will be possible to offer a choice of curricula must, of course, depend on the number of Students in attendance at the Centre and on the strength and qualifications of the staff. It is probably only in the larger Centres where there are, say, 30 students (3 classes of 10) that any attempt at genuine specialisation will be found to be practicable. In the smaller Centres where a double time-table is out of the question, it is suggested that the work should be so arranged that the necessary minimum of work in the compulsory subjects can be overtaken in the earlier part of the day, leaving the afternoon, or part of it, free for special study in any subject, or group of subjects, that may be thought desirable. For example: --N.B.--No importance attaches to the particular consecution of subjects given in this table, which is cited for illustrative purposes only. Periods for special study. t This and one additional period for Physical Exercises to be given as a half period on each of four days between, say, the 4th and 5th or the 6th and 7th periods, or as one whole period on each of two days, given partly in the...
