

The Maputo Directive (Paperback)

By Julius B Goode

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . This is a sequel to Good guys don't always win , after Vince Kunda fled Zambia, with the police just minutes behind him. The book can still be read as a stand alone. When Vince Kunda flies into Mozambique, the country is facing a double threat of torrential rains moving in from South Africa, and a developing tropical cyclone named Eline moving in from the Indian Ocean and threatening to make landfall within a few days. Vince is a former intelligence officer with the secret service in Zambia, but is now on the run, after going at odds with politicians and the police. He flies into Maputo from Portugal on an assignment to negotiate a deal with Major General Matsangaissa, who is leading a violent RENAMO faction in the jungles of northern Mozambique. Matsangaissa is a staunch Marxist Leninist. He is accusing the RENAMO leadership of being sellouts, and threatens to scuttle the ongoing peace talks with the government. Taking on the role as Vince case officer is Selinha. She is a former Mozambican secret service operative. She...
