This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Neuware - Intermediate Examination Paper from the year 2003 in the subject Politics - International Politics - Topic: Miscellaneous, printed single-sided, grade: 2,3 (B), University of Göttingen, 30 entries in the bibliography, language: English, abstract: Winston Churchill coined the term Special Relationship in his famous speech in Fulton, Missouri in 1946. This term characterises the unparalleled close Anglo-American relations during the Second World War and in the time thereafter. The shared perception that Nazi Germany and the Soviet Union constituted major external threats to their well-being bound the societies and leaderships of Great Britain and the United States together. The looming menace ceased to exist after the break-up of the Soviet Union and the demise of Communism, and for several authors so did the raison d'être of the Special Relationship as well. It was more however that brought these two countries together than the shared perception of a communist threat. Why is it that neither country has fully adjusted its mind to thinking of the members of the other society as foreigners, and that Americans still refer to Britain as the mother country every now and then? Why do certain authors call Britain the fortified outpost of the Anglo-Saxon race or the unsinkable aircraft carrier? And is it just by chance that fictional author George Orwell calls Britain Airstrip One and associates it with North America in his novel 1984? Is it a coincidence or are these admittedly vague expressions signs of subtle yet overarching bonds between the two countries? This work will analyse and discuss various aspects of Anglo-American relations. The apparent cooperation in the fields of foreign and security policy will be assessed, as well as...
