

Akbar: An Eastern Romance

By P. A. S. Van Limburg-Brouwer

CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. 304 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.7in. Shahanshah Akbar-e-Azam also known as or Akbar the Great (14 October 1542-27 October 1605), was the third Mughal Emperor. He was of Timurid descent; the son of Emperor Humayun, and the grandson of the Mughal Emperor Zaheeruddin Muhammad Babur, the ruler who founded the Mughal dynasty in India. At the end of his reign in 1605 the Mughal empire covered most of northern and central India. He is remembered for having a liberal outlook on all faiths and beliefs and during his era, where culture and art reached a zenith as compared to his predecessors. P. A. S. van Limburg Brouwer was a lawyer, literary scholar and member of the Lower House, 1829-1873. A scholar of classical antiquity, from 1856 he worked at the National Archives in The Hague. His scientific study on the East inspired him to write his only novel: Akbar (1872). The book gives an impression of life in India at the time of Emperor Akbar (1542-1605). This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

[3 MB]

Reviews

Great electronic book and valuable one. It really is simplistic but surprises within the fifty percent from the book. Its been printed in an extremely simple way in fact it is merely right after i finished reading this publication by which in fact modified me, change the way i really believe.

-- Dr. Bethany Lindgren

This book is very gripping and exciting. I was able to comprehend everything out of this written e publication. You will not truly feel monotony at at any time of your respective time (that's what catalogs are for concerning should you question me).

-- Eulalia Schamberger