Excerpt from The Poetical Works of James Russell Lowell His Was indeed a nature sloping to the southern side, and his friends could bask in the even sunshine of it, while he kept the gloomy skies carefully to himself. After months of constant pain, and anxiety for his daughter s health which he sums up in half a dozen lines, he writes in October 1890 I am beginning to feel like my old, or rather my young self again. When you write next it must be in words of one syllable, and with everything adapted to the apprehension of a boy. I have had enough to do with death, nor wish to have more till my own turn comes, and that I am ready for, tho perhaps too easily contented here. But the earth is so beautiful And six months later, in his last letter, after a terrible relapse Yester day I left my bed where I had been lying for a fortnight, and am now hobbling about in felt slippers. I suffered such bitter torture that I foresee. I shall recover slowly. This being so, I must give up the feeble hope I had of seeing the dear old Home this summer. I am glad you got the books and like them. I didn t mean by this collected and uniform edition to write finis, tho I am not sure my health won t write it for me. But I have enough uncollected essays of one kind or another to make a volume, and poems enough to fill a small other volume. If the summer does as much for me as I hope, I suppose that I shall wet my pen again....
