W Technology has made it possible to store my lifes entire records on a computer chip. Medical information, tax records, financial data, education records, Social Se-curity contributions, driver records are all available to someone by merely a few key strokes on a computer. Controlling access to all of my personal information is nearly impossible. Each classification of information has its own set of rules. Privacy considerations are certainly not new. The Fourth Amendment is one of our most precious constitutional rights: The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated. However, it is often the unintended consequences of laws that have the most dev-astating impact on maintaining personal privacy. Social Security is a classic exam-ple. When Social Security was created in 1935, the sole purpose of the Social Secu-rity Number was to track the earnings of employed Americans so that their...
