By Karol Mullaney-Dignam

Four Courts Press Ltd, Ireland, 2011. Paperback. Condition: New. New.. Language: English . Brand New Book. Ireland s Castletown - near Celbridge in Co. Kildare - was the home of the Right Honorable Thomas Conolly and his wife Lady Louisa Augusta (nee Lennox). A well-connected, high-society couple, the Conollys received invitations to the most exclusive social events in Dublin and London and were closely associated with formal social life at Dublin Castle. By the 1780s, their magnificent residence was a center of fashionable sociability in which music and dancing were significant agents. This study shows how music and dancing functioned in terms of social education: prominent music- and dancing-masters were employed and musical instruments purchased for members of the extended Conolly family. This scholarly examination of music and dancing (as aspects of domiciliary sociability), entertainment and education, provides new perspectives on the form, function, and furnishing of a Georgian country house in Ireland. It also provides a useful framework for investigating the lives of the various people who lived and worked therein. (Series: Maynooth Studies in Local History - Number 98).

Reviews

This is an awesome publication which i have actually read. This is certainly for all who statte that there was not a well worth reading through.
