RIt Industries, Inc., 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . SpaceTime Park is an exact scale model of the Solar System, located in New Braunfels, TX. Our model of the Solar System was specifically designed so you can walk through it at the speed of light. At a scale of 250,000,000 to One, every inch of the model represents 250 million inches in real life, or about four thousand miles. At this scale, the speed of light is 2.678 miles per hour (4.3 km/hr), equal to the average walking speed of most people. In reality, the speed of light is 186,000 miles per second (about 300,000 kilometers per second). That may seem fast, but it still takes a long time to go from one planet to the next. Is the speed of light really that slow, or is space really that big? It s all relative, of course. We kept the size and distances of the planets in proper scale with each other to show people just how big the distances are compared to the size of the planets. We made it so the speed of light is equal to walking speed to demonstrate how slow the speed of light really is in the Universe. Why does this matter? Science fiction movies and school book images make the Solar System and other star systems seem more accessible than they really are. They diminish the sheer magnitude of our space exploration accomplishments. The things our space program has done within our solar system are truly astounding. Unfortunately, the stars, even the very closest ones, are still far, far beyond our reach. It is easy and comforting to look to the past and think how far we ve come. But the visionaries among...
