Forgotten Books, United States, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Ophthalmic Literature, Vol. 7: January, 1917 The most interesting piece of literature of ophthalmology that has appeared in the month is the first number of the British Journal of Ophthalmology. Its typography is neat, and it is printed on paper of a quality that is scarcely obtainable in America. The careful arrangement and freedom from proof errors show the experience and devotion of the editor, Sydney Stephenson, and its sub-editor, E. Erskine Henderson. The editorial committee adequately represents the best writers on ophthalmology, not only of the United Kingdom, but of the whole British Empire. It gives an illustration of the truth set forth in the Foreword that The stress of war has compelled all sorts and conditions of men to ask themselves how can they better utilize their resources and increase the efficiency of their work In countless ways they are finding that union is strength.
