

A Report of Fifty Cases of Extraction of Cataract Without Iridectomy (Classic Reprint) (Paperback)

By Oren Day Pomeroy

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from A Report of Fifty Cases of Extraction of Cataract Without Iridectomy Immediately on the delivery of the lens I refused to manipulate the eye further than to lift the upper eyelid and observe the cornea deeply sunken into the globe, but in fair coaptation and with no prolapsus of the iris. This patient recovered without excessive reaction, but vitreous opacities were found. The vision was Q. I could not ao count for the loss of vitreous in this case and also in the subsequent one. The latter, which is recorded as a failure, showed nothing unusual in the extraction until after the expulsion of the lens, when the Bowman spoon was used in manipulating the cornea so as to more perfectly restore the dislocated iris, the wound suddenly widely gaped, and from one quarter to one third of the vitreous suddenly es caped. No speculum was used; the eye was looking to the front, there was absolutely no faulty conduct on the part of the patient, and I could not in the least account for the accident. No violent reaction occurred;...
