Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO provided information on the Central Artery Tunnel Project, a federally aided highway project in Boston, Massachusetts, focusing on the projects: (1) status; (2) estimated costs; and (3) financing plans. GAO noted that: (1) the project, which includes plans to build or reconstruct 7.5 miles of urban highways in Boston, is scheduled for completion by 2004; (2) the Massachusetts Department of Highways (MHD) latest 8-billion project estimate excludes over 1 billion of costs that were previously considered as project costs, because MHD is seeking funding from other state and local agencies; (3) inflation, the risky nature of construction work, and MHD inability to achieve its aggressive goals for containing project costs could also increase project costs; and (4) MHD based its project finance plan on 1992 cost estimates and assumptions about the availability of state and federal funding. This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
