Excerpt from Experiments in Vaccination Against Anthrax The proper disposition of the infective material, particularly the carcasses, should be considered of the utmost importance, since such material constitutes the greatest source, of danger toward the spread ing of the disease. Drainage from the soil polluted by infected carcasses may carry the infection to distant points and deposit the spores over large areas hitherto uninfected. Buzzards and other birds (dalrymple), dogs, and even ?ies may also carry the infection from such sources into uninfected localities. Therefore, in an effort to control the disease, an educational propaganda must be carried out and stringent compulsory measures adopted for the proper disposi tion of the infective material from premises where the disease appears.
