Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Memoir of George Otis Shattuck Joseph Shattuck, his son, the fourth of that name, married Hannah Bailey in 1826. George Otis was the second of their four sons. They lived on the old farm, whose pleasant, fertile fields slope gently back to the Merrimac River. On the opposite side of the highway was, until a few months ago, an old well, the only relic of the house David Abbot built; thence the fields stretch back into pastures and fine woodlands. It is a region of smiling peace; and here Mr. Shattuck spent his boyhood, and under the excellent training of New England home and church and school were founded his integrity of character, his industrious habits, and his vigorous constitution. Here too he became a strong swimmer, a good horseman, a practical farmer, and to some extent a woodsman, familiar with trees and birds and the aspects and signs of the sky.
