Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Louisiana Conservationist, Vol. 48: May/June 1996 My first contact with Sheepshead was with a ne er-do-well uncle. He was the kind of guy every kid ought to grow up with. Unc never was a big success and, in fact, was sort of the black sheep of our family. Slightly overweight and balding, he wore the look of the downtrodden victim of hard times. But when fishing was the topic, his eyes would begin to twinkle and the cares and woes of making a living vanished. The Great Depression of the 19203 and 19308 was in full bloom and men like Unc had been beaten down. Even though times were tough, Unc never let work interfere with fishing, hence a succession of jobs. He was a natural artist at fishing and Sheepshead were his favorite subject. He had refined the rig and technique and had no peers. Watch the tip of the rod son. Hold your finger under the line and you ll feel and see what those rascals are up to. Heck, Unc could think like a fish, and he knew how to get a kid s attention without being adult about it. Use enough sinker so you can hold the bottom and when the rod tip begins to twitch, gently hang back on that rod, and you ve got him.
