The Fascinating Autobiography of Author J. Carlton Sharp (Paperback)

By J Carlton Sharp

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . A clearly Must Have book that presents the fascinating life of the author, from birth through seventy-five years of unending change and challenges. The molding of his life, morals, and family values were substantially provided by the YMCA, as both parents worked full-time. Three weeks at summer day-camp, and, a thirty-day canoe trip on the southern lakes of Ontario Province, proved his mettle; sleeping under the stars and seeing only a rare ski-plane, and Canadian wildlife with awe and respect. The most interesting years of education with teachers that had a lasting affect on his education; mooning (a fad in the 1950 s,) family chores such as (stoking an old coal furnace; beating a rug on the clothes line to rid the dust and dirt, and turning the wringer on an old washing machine to remove the water before hanging the garments on the clothes line.) An amazing eight-weeks of Army boot camp at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, during the Vietnam War ramp-up. Thirty-eight years of managerial growth at the National Security Agency; Seventy-six travels to foreign countries,...
