This published book is wonderful. It is really simplified but unexpected situations within the fifty percent of the ebook. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****. We don't kill the ones we love. We put them in a cage, and we go mad with fear and pain when they get out. Joy is lying on an exotic beach with a bag filled with helium around her head. Still a confused and infantile teenager at heart, she's twenty-five and so tired. No wonder she gets massively pissed when a cheeky stranger interrupts her thoroughly planned suicide. They don't start off on a good note, but as Joy gets to know Adam, she comes to think he's everything she has been looking for in other human beings. Inspired by the regained hope that she can still be mended, Joy decides to remain a bit longer on the lazy, godforsaken island in the Indian Ocean and continues to search for the sort of freedom she can only vaguely define, along with a reason to stay. All this time, the helium tank is waiting for Joy under her bed. My first word was Why? I was lying in my crib, thrashing my little legs, and crying. Shrieking at the top of my tiny pink lungs, choking on this wail, Why? Why? That was twenty-four years ago. Nothing has dramatically changed since then, to be honest. I mean, of course I don't sob anymore--not publicly, anyway. My Why? is now automatic, impassive, like a broken, stuck echo. Tell me anything, and I'll chime back, Why? Have you eaten today? Why? Happy Birthday! Why? I love you. Why? Have you, did you, you should, you can't-- Why? Why, as in What's the point?.
