Brand New Book. Excerpt from Astronomy: The Sun and His Family The sun has set and a deep, rosy color lies along the western horizon. In the clear blue above this pink band a large star, with a soft, steady white light, shines out, the first of the evening host. Half way up the eastern sky the moon has climbed, Silver bright. The moonlight falls in a broad, glittering, bronze track across the Waters. In this line of light the rowboats and small sail boats rock at anchor, each little fishing vessel with one steadying sail set; the trading schooners lie waiting for a favorable wind; they look like Silver ships with silver sails. Such is the illusion of the moonlight. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
