By Ortwin De Graef

University of Nebraska Press. Hardback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, Titanic Light: Paul De Man's Post-romanticism, Ortwin De Graef, Notoriety struck the Belgian-born literary critic Paul de Man more than once. First came his fame as one of the principal - and most controversial - theorists of deconstruction in the 1970s and early 1980s. After his death in 1983, notoriety struck a second time. In 1987, a Belgian scholar discovered that de Man had written in the early 1940s for several journals that collaborated with the Nazis during the German occupation of Belgium. The revelations precipitated debates that have yet to subside. The scholar who set loose this furor was Ortwin de Graef, who has since embarked on a comprehensive survey of de Man's writings. The first book, "Serenity in Crisis", covered de Man's career from 1939 to 1960. "Titanic Light" examines de Man's work from the 1960s. "Titanic Light" concentrates on de Man's increased interest during the 1960s in Romantic (and post-Romantic) literature and criticism. De Graef follows in detail de Man's strong readings of the works of Holderlin, Rousseau, and Wordsworth. He connects de Man's interpretations of these and other writers with his earlier critical works and his...
