Excerpt: .to make the lawful business of real estate brokerage unlawful, nor to bar real estate agents from making contracts. It was of no concern to plaintiff that defendant was not a licensed real estate agent. The service rendered was not affected by reason of plaintiff's failure to pay his license tax. His violation of the law was a matter exclusively between him and the District of Columbia. The act places no inhibition on the real estate business in this District. The prohibition goes to the agent, and not to the business. Its language is: That no person shall engage in or carry on any business for which a license tax is imposed, etc. Both the prohibition and penalty are directed to the person, and not to the business transacted. Tooker v. Duckworth, 107 Mo. App. 231, 80 S. W. 963; Hughes v. Snell,...
