Excerpt from The People s Bible, Vol. 6: Discourses Upon Holy Scripture Almighty god, we would rest in thee. Thou hast welcomed us to thy rest, and made us, in promise, sharers of thy feast. The Lord will bless his people with peace, yea, with peace that passeth understanding. Thou dost cause men to possess their souls in peace and confidence when they look unto the Lord and set their expectation eagerly upon him. We have said unto our souls, Look unto the hills whence cometh thy help: your help cometh from the hills which made heaven and earth. Thus the heaven and the earth have become images to us of thy greatness, wisdom, goodness, and continual superintendence; and thus through heaven and earth we have found the living God who made them both. All things tell of thy power, and all things Sing of thy love. Why should man be Silent His should be the loudest, sweetest voice of all. Let the people praise thee, O God; yea, let all the people praise thee; let the time of Silence now past more than suffice, and let the time of Singing, and rejoicing, and testifying, come in upon us like a new year. Truly thy mercies deserve our songs. We Will sing of mercy, and of judgment: for is not thy judgment a mercy? And is not thy mercy a judgment? Art thou not continually looking upon us through the cloud, and blessing us every day with sunlight We would join the innumerable company of angels in praising God. We would think of the great host in heavenly places joining the hymn of adoration and thankfulness we would unite in the great...
