Kimball, Arthur M. Kimball and Sullivan Ballou, was appointed, to make the necessary investigation. The results of that investigation were afterwards presented to the committee by the Attorney General, in an argument advancing and supporting the claim of the State, to the fee of all lands in the Woonasquatucket valley covered by tidewater; and were answered by James M. Clarke, Esq., City Solicitor of the city of Providence, who appeared for the city, said city being not only a thatch-bed proprietor, but interested in other lands embraced in the terms of the resolution, which were tilled in by the city in the winter of 1857-8,...
