Excerpt: .with the origins of art as exhibited by such writers as Spencer, Grosse, and Him, as a guide to the teaching of art. 80. The first and most obvious function of these arts is to enhance the student s powers of aesthetic appreciation for the forms of art involved in drawing and singing, since these exercises give an insight into the laws of regularity, symmetry, and harmony as elements of expression that can be obtained so effectively in no other way. The exercise of these arts, moreover, helps to develop the mind s latent power of appreciation of what is most satisfying in the ideals of art. In addition to this general function of these high-school forms of art study, each has important specific functions. Drawing trains the eye and the hand, whereas singing trains the ear and the vocal organs. A new sort and quality of observation is demanded the moment the student tries to represent objects by the aid of the pencil, for not only must he see precisely all the details of form, but he must look at the world as if it were flat, and yet must at the same time see how its depth can be represented by shade and perspective. When one considers for a moment the enormous importance of sight in the formation of our mental images, one can perceive the educational significance of such a systematic training in exactness of vision as is involved in drawing...
