Excerpt from A Remote Entry System for the CDC 6600 Most often the remote users store their programs at the central computer, and input jobs consist of control cards to call in the desired program, and data. Facilities are provided for editing and updating. Transmitted output is usually a print file, but some users generate punched decks from which incremental plots are produced. Display output can also be transmitted, and this will indeed be the case for the CDC 200. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
