Excerpt from Hawaii, a Snap Shot: Being the Record of a Trip to the Paradise of the Pacific In Which the Truth of General Impressions More Than Literal and Often Misleading Fact Is Offered He became ghastly as the idea struck in. Good heavens, I am lost! My insides are stuck together and I will never eat again. I knew this foreign travel would be the death of me. A brutal sailor, noticing his emotion, came up, touched his hat, and requested him to Please go leeward and weep in the sea, if it is all the same to you. The Pacific Ocean is a perfect paradise for that class of people who are inquisitive about their neighbors and who do not feel easy in their minds unless they know what their acquaintances had for dinner. I have always endeavored to keep dark what I have been eating, particularly after partaking of onions, but on Senor Balboa s Pacific it was of no use. The fatal secret was wrested from me three times per day, and the gossip mongers had it all their own way.
