and Costs of Labour
Model Characteristics, Cycle Time, Methodology

Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: LAP Lambert Academic Publishing | Model Characteristics, Cycle Time, Methodology | One of the most important key factors of increasing compatibility in textile is being able to reduce the costs to global averages. The compatibility of apparel manufacturers depends on product standardization; technology; how advanced they are and whether they have the mental work-power to deal with the technology. The technologic development is not limited only with automation of the machinery on the production line but also...
