Yet, if we overcome through the blood of the Lamb, we shall not be hurt of the second death. The conflict is sharp, the victory most difficult, owing to the evil of our hearts, the deceitfulness of the world, and the wiles and malice of the devil. But the believer can say, Thanks be to God, for He hath delivered my soul from the nethermost hell. Is this our experience? Have we been taught that, but for redeeming grace, the second death must have been ours? Have we been taught that, but for restraining grace, we should even now fall from the narrow and difficult path to heaven? Or do we think that we deserve eternal happiness, and that hell can never be our portion? Even the full assurance of hope which is given to the advanced believer, does...
