Excerpt: .The effect of varying densities, or specific gravities, in gases, is also remarkable on the point of time. Mr. Kelland observes, that the rapidity of mixing is dependant on the relative densities of the gases. Dr. Dalton found the mobility of gases to be inversely as their densities. Dr. Reid proves, that gases of different densities do not mingle rapidly. jThe experiments of Professor Graham also prove how influential is the difference of density in aiding or retarding diffusion, and he even comes to the conclusion, that the specific gravity of gases can be determined by experiment, on the principle of diffusion, with greater accuracy than by ordinary means. Tho rapidity of mixing is dependant on the relative densities of the gases, and appears, from Mr. Graham s experiments, to be such that the mass which a gas A, in any small time, communicates to the gas B, is to the mass B which it receives, as the square root of the density of A to the square root of the density of B. --Problem 89. t Fill a jar half full of oxygen, and then cautiously fill it up with carbonic acid. Then remove the cork and introduce a suspended candle. It burns brilliantly in the upper stratum of oxygen, but is extinguished in the carbonic acid below, being kindled again, as it is again drawn upwards into the oxygen. Hence gases of different densities do not mingle rapidly with each other, at least,...
