Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from San Francisco There is more life on the Bay than there has been for many years. Steamers and ships come and go continually. The war has brought back sailing ships, possibly for only a time, but they are a pleasing sight with their new white sails. The ferry boats, no doubt, will always be. They exist on the North and East Rivers in New York in spite of the under/river tubes, and so many that have crossed the ferry from Oakland have received their first impression of San Francisco from the deck of one of these boats. They are a great feature in the life of the City, and have been since its beginning. Today the focus of the principal business life of the City lies within the blocks surrounding Market and Kearny Streets. Here we find the greatest traffic and two notable architectural features. One is Lotta's Fountain, given by the actress to the City at an early date, commemorative of her gratitude for the people's enthusiastic spirit. It expresses the departed pioneer life. The Call Building is the other notable feature architecturally. It is one of the successfully beautiful tall buildings in the country. The line of its dome and the relation of its width to its height make it a pleasing sight seen from a distance or near by. In this district there is a hurrying and increasing life. It is very different from the deliberation of step and demeanor one sees in the Chinese quarter. It is impossible to forget, when thinking of San Francisco, that within a few blocks from the most important business district is found the Chinese Town. There is...
