Excerpt from At a Special Session of the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut, Held at Hartford, on the Twenty Third Day of February A. D. 1809 The communications made to this assembly, by his Excellency the Governor, at the commencement of the session, will explain to you, the causes of our being convened. His conduct, in this respect, has been approved by a greater unanimity of sentiment, than has been expressed in the councils of the state, for many years, on any subject regarding the affairs of the General Government: and we confidently trust, will approve itself, to every citizen of the state to every lover of genuine constitutional liberty.
