Excerpt from Mortuary: Joseph Dennie, January 7, 1812 His ordinary pursuits of life to offer his undivided devotion on the altar of literature. The love of letters was, indeed, his darling passion - the light which had charmed his youth, which illuminated his manhood, which still threw its mellow and wavering beam on the sickness and sorrow, even of his dying hour. In the indulgence of this enthusiasm he had been a most laborious student - he had read every thing on every subject - so that if the rigidly exact sciences be excepted, there was scarcely a topic of human knowledge with which he was not.
