

Rindu: A Novel of Expatriate Life in Eastern Malaysia (Paperback)

By Eric Muirhead

Createspace, United States, 2013. Paperback. Condition: New. Corey Okada (illustrator). Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Rindu means lovesick in Malay. A young man steps off a yacht on a pristine island, Labuan, and works in a fabrication yard building jackets and decks as a Quality Control Supervisor. The hard life of the Iban welders, engineers and expatriates, the beauty of the island and the waters, the passion of the women for the men and each other, the incredible fecundity of the Orient all contribute to the first real saga of oil men overseas. You will feel what it is like walking one hundred fifty feet above the sand on the jacket leg, or diving into Brunei Bay or sitting with your lover in the Mandarin Hotel in Singapore. Endure the agonies of one man struggling with himself and his lovers, the clash of hard steel with the fluidity of the South China Sea. Read one chapter a night and revel in the sensuality of the language and the vision of a possible future. Eric Muirhead graduated from Yale, moved to Houston, left medical school and drove a taxi. Cab Tales is his first novel,...

Reviews

The publication is easy in read better to understand. It is writter in basic words and phrases rather than hard to understand. You wont truly feel monotony at anytime of your respective time (that's what catalogues are for about if you question me).
