Chipfield of Illinois in the House of Representatives, February 12, 1917 Many years have come and gone since the Earth last saw the beloved form of the great Emancipator. Although now they almost equal in number the allotted span of the life of a man, not a single laurel that was placed upon his brow by the loving hands of a grateful people has been withered or faded under the destroying hand of time. The passage of the years has but added to their freshness and luster, and his memory has become the more fixed and established, until today we again gather in reverence, to do homage to the deeds and achievements of the Nations greatest - Abraham Lincoln. In the state from which I come, as well as in the other commonwealths of the nation, his greatness is not forgotten, nor are the deeds which he performed lost to remembrance, nor is their glory lessened and though he has long since passed to the glorious company of the immortals, yet in truth he now liveth and speaks, wherever the thought of liberty finds lodgment in the mind of man. As the gray twilight brings the day to a close, on the broad prairies of Illinois, mothers draw their little ones to their knees, and tell in tones of affection o er and o er again the entrancing story of the life of this great man.
