Y: Upon the Occasion of the Inauguration of a Monument - Who dies in vain Upon his country s war-fields and within The shadow of her altars? - - Feeble heart! I tell thee that the Voice of Patriot blood, Thus pour d for Faith and Freedom, hath a tone Which from the night of ages, from the gulf Of Death shall burst and make its high appeal Sound unto Earth and Heaven! Friends, Neighbors, and Fellow-citizens: I looked forward to my preparations of an Address, in connection with such a solemn and interesting occasion, as a privilege and an honor. For nearly one and a half centuries my race has been connected with this township. Reade Hock derives its name from a near connection of my family whose blood flows in my veins. My grandmother s home stood in your midst, before the first Revolutionary war was even the basis of a dream. Sly great-grandfather lived within the town limits when the Indian still encamped upon his clearings, and the wild beasts, which have disappeared from our midst, still nightly prowled about his dwelling and his betterments. Therefore, to address the people of this portion of the upper district of the town of Red Hook, in relation to the part which its inhabitants played during the most momentous period of our country s life, is a very proud and happy duty for a member of their community. This is especially so in my case, whose fathers spake to your fathers when the Frenchman was still their most dangerous enemy and the shores of...
