Not illustrated. 1851 Excerpt: . . . population, and three on taxes, while the Democratic counties are entitled to three delegates on population, and two on taxes, giving them the benefit of the fraction on taxes. The Democratic counties have therefore two more delegates than they are entitled to, upon any fair and just principle of apportionment. Now, permit me to call the attention of this committee to the result of this apportionment in another point of view. Here is a list of Whig counties with twenty-two delegates, and let us see what is the aggregate amount of population, and of taxes, which they pay into the treasury of the state--Now, I present a list of Democratic counties, to which are assigned twenty-two delegates, and what is the aggregate amount of their white population, and of their taxes Twenty-two Democratic delegates, therefore, represent an average of 4, 812 white population, and 3, 989 of taxes, each; while twenty-two Whig delegates represent an average of 6, 053 of white population, and 4, 827 of taxes, each; thus disfranchising 27, 318 of white population, and sinking 18, 43 L of taxes. Now, permit me to enquire, whether gentlemen of the East supposed, when such an apportionment was made, that Democrats--Western Democrats--were to be whipped into the support of anything so monstrous, so outrageously unjust The first wrong is to be visited upon the West, and that wrong begets another, which is to be visited upon the Whigs. How true is the lesson taught by...
