THE STRENGTH OF CALM CONFIDENCE. Isaiah xxx. 15. First Morning Lesson. IN QUIETNESS AND IN CONFIDENCE SHALL BE TOUR STRENGTH. You will not, I trust, have forgotten the image which I set before you in my last Sermon, and which, I said, will best help us to interpret the whole connected teaching of the Sundays in Advent. The daughter of Zion, --the Church of the redeemed, -- is left as a besieged city. We suppose, then, that through all that city has now been heard the call, Thy King cometh unto thee. Many have believed that call. They have come forth from the works of darkness, --from the evil and lawless courses of conduct which they would not bear to be judged by their King; and they have put on the bright armour in which He would have them arrayed. They have taken their places upon the ramparts, and, animated by the prospect of His coming to deliver them, boldly defy their foes. Moreover, because they remember all that their King has done for them, --because they know the kindness and goodness of His character, --they hope for His coming. They lift up their heads to hail every sign of His arrival. Still further, because they are assured that He will come, and because they are hoping for His coming, they have done their utmost to prepare their city as well as themselves for His presence. They have endeavoured...
