Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Strad, 1897, Vol. 8: A Monthly Journal for Professionals and Amateurs of All Stringed Instruments Played With the Bow Whats in a name? A few days ago I came across this name in a musical paper - Ivan Donoiewski. Whom think ye that he is who is said to be about to bear it? Why, none other than our friend, Mr. John Dunn, Of course, I give no guarantee for the truth of the story. But there is no doubt we very patriotic English folk do think infinitely more highly of a foreign fiddler than of a native. The head of one of the largest music-publishers in the world once told me himself that violin music bearing an English composer s name was quite an unmarketable commodity; and in proof of his statement he added that he had tried the experiment by publishing pieces that he knew to be good, which contained the germs of popularity with a foreign looking variant of the English composers patronymic, while similar works for other instruments or the voice, by the same writer, were issued with his real name. What is true in the trade is very likely to be true in the profession. If the story of Mr. Dunn is correct, he is hardly likely to have taken the plunge without mature consideration. It would be interesting to know the results of his experiment. It is a good-looking, well-sounding name - Donoiewski. It has no Wardour Street appearance. It really looks the genuine article! But, seriously, what a fearful reflection it is on our customs that a musician of Mr. Dunn s calibre should have to adopt...
