Not illustrated. 1897 Excerpt: .on a basis of an average daily collection of 250 tons, which, from careful inquiry and personal observation, I am convinced was a fair assumption for the year 1896. This amount may reach a maximum of 500 tons during the summer months, hence a plant to dispose of 500 tons per day was required. It was expressly stated and understood that all of the garbage which might be put out by our citizens to be carried away was to be disposed of by this process and that it was not to be buried in vacant lots, boiled in open kettles in unfrequented spots, mixed with horse manure, hauled to sea, or fed to pigs and cattle in Queens County, as had been done by the former contractors. If the contractors were to carry out the contract in good faith, this price per ton for collection and disposition was remarkably low as compared with the ten other cities of the United States with a population of over 200,000 (census of 1890) which have adopted some system of garbage utilization. (For the cost of disposition by the various systems, see Mr. Taylor s report on Refuse Disposal). But it was contended by the contractors themselves, and seconded by His Honor, the Mayor, and the Commissioner of City Works, that they had never defaulted on any contract with this or any other city, although the sum total of their contracts ran into the millions, and consequently the city ought...
