Novel New York City Homicide Detective Chuck Davidson is a guy s guy. He likes sports, beer, and classic cars--fancy gadgets, not so much. When yet another high-tech phone goes on the fritz, he knows he needs help, and he meets a man who loves technology as much as he hates it--cute but awkward biochemist Herbert Pommeret. Herb s never been with a man--not even on a date. He hides behind his research, daydreaming about what it might be like to find someone special. A malfunctioning phone causes his path to cross with a sexy older detective, and Herb wishes he d spent less time studying science and more learning how to flirt, because he can think of some experiments he d like to conduct with Chuck. None of his considerable intelligence is helping him express his desires to the other man. Just when it seems they might overcome their differences, Herb s research puts him in danger. He s...
