Excerpt from Cooperative Economic Insect Report, Vol. 6: October 5, 1956 The week was abnormally warm west of the Mississippi. High temperatures which reached 101 as far north as South Dakota soon evaporated the moisture from the few showers received in the central and lower Great Plains. In contrast the week was abnormally cool east of the Mississippi owing to frequent surges of cold Canadian air, which brought unusually low temperatures to northern areas, and to several cloudy days associated with Flossy and of cooler air into southern areas following her passage. General freezing over the Northeast on the 26th and 27th ended the growing season for most crops in virtually all areas Of New England. The past four weeks have all been abnormally cold in the Northeast and Boston, Massachusetts reported the past month the coldest September there since 1917. (summary supplied by the u.s.
