Excerpt from The Thorny Way of Truth, Vol. 6: Documents on the Violation of the Laws of Conservation This article is dedicated to the anti-gravitational machines which use inertial centrifugal forces for their drive. First I set a clear border-line between the potential and inertial forces, as in to day s physics, under the pernicious influence of the theory of general relativity, this border has become very blurred. I show that for gravitational and electric (electrostatic) forces Newton s third law is valid, but for magnetic forces it can be violated. The question is whether Newton s third law can be violated for inertial forces. I show that for collisional forces it cannot be violated and I analyse to which extent was it violated by centrifugal forces. I do not analyse the Coriolis forces and I mention only briefly the last successes of Sandy Kidd in violating this law by the help of gyro forces.
