

The Best Busy Parent Guide Ever Tricks, Tools, and Spontaneous Activities to Distract, Entertain, and Unplug Your Kids

By L. Matthew Jervis

Skyhorse Publishing. Hardcover. Condition: New. 192 pages. A fun and practical guide to keeping kids engaged and off your phone. While most parenting books introduce ideas to help moms and dads spend more time with their kids, this book provides ideas for activities that kids can do on their own. Mom or Dad can participate or just set up and go get some work done while the kids are occupied with wholesome and fun things to do. Parents today have a host of digital instruments at their disposal. These brightly lit devices come fully stocked with apps targeting kids, providing easy activities for those in-between moments. But parents shouldn't have to pull out their iPhones every time they need to make dinner or finish a work project. The crafts and activities in this book will encourage creativity, help youngsters develop problem-solving skills, and give kids something they can be proud of that was not built in Minecraft. Jervis tells you how much time each activity will take to complete, so you can choose one that matches how much time you need to get your own stuff done. From simple crafts to imagination games, easy cooking projects to ways to make chores...
