Excerpt from Division of Research Services, Report of Program Activities: October 1, 1977, Through September 30, 1978 The Division of Research Services provides research products and services to intramural scientists and supports extramural activities as well. The Division's programs and activities are known throughout the biomedical research community, nationally as well as internationally. Drs is recognized as a leader in bioengineering and instrumentation, research animal modeling, and environmental health and safety areas. Its support services are considered by nih scientific and administrative users as essential to continued high performance levels. User demands and expectations are met with organizational efforts to provide the highest quality product or service economically. This undertaking demands constant analysis and review of the Division's performance areas with a commitment to redesign and restructure, when necessary, to accommodate current and projected biomedical research needs. An important element in addressing changing research priorities is the continued service of the Associate Director for Environmental Health and Safety, the Branch Chiefs, and the Executive Officer. With the Director, they constitute a planning and strategy board for short and long-range programming. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
