His sermons seemed almost equally impressive for all classes of people, children as well as adults, unlearned as well as educated. For his knowledge and wisdom had come into his heart through his experience. I can refer to some results and ways of his sermons from his letters. After preaching at the general conference of Osaka, he says in his letter to Mrs. Boutell, concerning his sermon from the text, Notwithstanding in this rejoice not, . . . but rather rejoice, because your names are written in heaven (Luke 10: 20): God helped me in the preaching and many of the church members shed tears while I was preaching. Of other services he says: I preached a week ago last...
