

Marshfield MA Images of America

By John J. Galluzzo

Arcadia Publishing. Paperback. Condition: New. 128 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.3in. x 0.4in. Marshfield, a seaside retreat famous for its beaches, hotels, and ocean views, has always shone in summer. It was the home of some of the country's leading families, specifically the Winslows and the Websters, and world-renowned concert singer Adelaide Phillips, as well as the site of the first radio broadcast in America, engineered by Reginald Fessenden at Brant Rock on Christmas Eve 1906. Today the town's various villages retain the identities that defined them in the early 1900s, from hardworking Green Harbor to beachy Brant Rock to serene Sea View to the rolling Marshfield Hills. Marshfield has celebrated its heroes, survived the great Ocean Bluff fire of 1941, and, most importantly, preserved its history through several historic preservation projects around town. This item ships from multiple locations. Your book may arrive from Roseburg, OR, La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
