Excerpt from The Civilian, Vol. 8: A Fortnightly Journal Devoted to the Interests of the Civil Service of Canada; December 24, 1915 Christmas is thus an annual representation, a drama, as it were, in which the course of the greatest movement in history is compendiously shown. Much, if not all, that is good in the old heathen customs of our Virile, conquering ancestors, survives with us, but transfused with the light and warmth of a religion whose one word is Love. That old errors are still existent, that the transformation of the bar barian is not complete, even after two thousand years, is all too clearly seen in the sickening light of the lurid skies of Europe and Northern Asia and South Africa. Nevertheless we feel and know that, if our civilization has lasted for two thousand years as against a thousand of the best that went before it; if its influence overspreads the world instead of being confined to a Single city or to a number of subject provinces; if its strongest elements are shedding their dearest blood that men may be free and not dominated by institutions or by other men, it is because our civilization, whatever strength it may draw from the social customs of our heathen ancestors, is, in aspiration at least, a Christian civilization.
