

Modern Hockey Quotations

By Ross Bonander

Createspace, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Hockey players aren't boring people-- they just play them on TV, where they give notoriously dull post-game interviews loaded with sports clichés and lacking in any real substance. Dig a little deeper, however, and you find that while hockey may not be the quotation bonanza that is baseball, it is nonetheless a major sport populated by lots of clever, quotable people. Max Pacioretty is the most unselfish, two-way sniper in the league. He's the anti-Phil Kessel. (Jack Todd) The things that go into winning don't change, but the way in which you get there is never the same. (Sidney Crosby) There you go again, Whoever scores the first goal is going to win the game. Let's wash that one out. It doesn't make a difference. (Pat Burns) Modern Hockey Quotations is a big, readable collection of quotes, quips and passages about hockey by players, coaches, general managers, writers, owners and others, most of whom are directly involved in the National Hockey League today or had been going back no further than the mid...
