Elisha Whittlesey, of Canfield, Ohio: Delivered in the First Presbyterian Church, Washington, D. C., On Sunday Evening, January 10, 1864 Ps. cxii, 6. - The righteous shall be in everlasting remembrance. Prov. X, 7. - The memory of the just is blessed. Could the truth of these words penetrate every heart, and fashion the characters of men, the world would contain a noble race. Sometimes a signal example Visers from among the multitudes, to give us a practical proof of its possibility. The men who, from time to time, thus appear upon the field of observation, deserve to be marked, as astronomers watch the coming and going of the stars for the perfection of their celestial science. A star is great in its physical aspects only; but how much greater is a human soul, full of the spirit and the light of God, emerging upon the stage of action, traveling upon its course through the cycle of time, and finally ascending in its august...
