The body of the living insect is concealed beneath the circular, waxen scale which it forms for its protection. The largest scales are smaller than an ordinary pin-head in diameter and are quite at (see Pl. I, figs. 2 and The scales are hardly more than 1-25 inch across and many of them are smaller still. Beneath the scale the body of the insect may be found as a small, immovable, yellow body (if still alive) which if crushed seems to be filled with a rather thin, yellow, oily liquid. The young of this species are born alive and their powers of reproduction are so re markable that a tree bearing but few live scales in the Spring may become quite heavily infested by Fall and will then be liable to severe injury during the following sea son unless some method of destroying the scales is used during the winter. Close observation with the naked eye Shows that the scales are marked with rings of light and dark gray around a nearly black center. When very abundant they give a general ashy - gray appearance to the entire bark which is noticeable at some distance from the tree.
